FROM THE DIRECTOR

There's a saying "It takes a village," and that is certainly true when doing a show like 'Suite Surrender'. So many people worked incredibly hard to bring this show to life. We here at the County Seat Theater have never had the attitude "Oh, it's only community theater!" We treat each show, each script, costume piece, set and so on with the utmost respect to insure our audiences keep coming back for more. Thank you to this amazing cast and crew for being committed to that respect. After all - Life is but a stage.

Susan (Binezak) Krochalk

I am so pleased to share my art work with you here at The Encore Performing Art Center. I have always found creating art to be therapeutic and fulfilling. Some days I feel like challenging myself to paint details as realistically as I can, other times I am compelled to bring forth bright, colorful, whimsical images. As you look around, you will see results of both my realism and whimsical moods.

Acrylic paint happens to be my preferred medium to work with and most of my pieces here are done with acrylic. The call for art, here at The Encore, that can be tied into the themes of the theater productions inspires me to experiment with different styles and techniques in bringing forth something personally meaningful and hopefully thought provoking to the viewers.

Creating art has been a lifelong passion for me. My mother was an artist and crafter; her love for art was passed on to me at an early age. I pursued art education throughout my years in school. In 1991 I received a Bachelor's degree in Phys. Ed. from Northern Michigan University with a minor in Art Education. So many friends and family members that are artists or art lovers have continued to spur on my creativity over the years.

With much gratitude, I thank my family and friends for their support and the art community for providing encouragement and advice that is helping me grow artistically and expand my horizon in presenting my art to the community.
